

Krista Glazewski Biography

Krista Glazewski, a former middle school teacher with Albuquerque Public Schools, currently serves as Professor and Department Chair of Instructional Systems Technology at Indiana University. She is known for advancing a greater understanding of how we foster sustained change in educational systems toward practices that will support learning through complex problem-solving. Her partnership work has spanned multiple regions in the U.S. to investigate how and under what conditions educators might adopt and adapt new, complex practices. This is reflected in external funding of $10.47 million from the National Science Foundation, U.S. Department of Education, and U.S. Department of Defense. Her publications include 47 peer-reviewed papers, 18 book chapters, and one book across two editions. She currently serves as Editor of the Interdisciplinary Journal of Problem-Based Learning, an open-access journal that publishes peer-reviewed articles of research, analysis, or promising practice related to all aspects of problem- or inquiry-based learning.
